

Abstract

When a Doppler sensor (2) itself receives a change in a reflected wave generated by reflection of a microwave, which is transmitted by the Doppler sensor (2), to a detected object and detects movement of the object, an authentication processing unit (3) performs ID authentication processing. A control unit (4) gives an execution instruction for threatening processing to a threatening executing unit (10) on the basis of an output of authentication processing means.